

Worm Organ

I've created a little "buddy" to keep you amused and satisfied during your hours of loneliness, you can pet him, make him and his squad sing for you and even sing with him. So basically you can have three kinds of interaction with our little friends, just move them around and make them bounce, or do the same while making them sing by clicking your mouse. The last but not least is that you can make them sing pitch perfect on three different octave with your keyboard.